

Washington, May 22, 2008. Lucy's assignment in N'Djamena, Chad is now over! Nearly 3 years of it, packed to the rim with motions, emotions and commotions! We met great people; we saw beautiful places; we did incredible stuff; and at the end, we left with great sorrow. But, now as ever, life moves on!

We are now back in the US where we will stay for about 8 weeks: the first 3 in Washington, DC, the others in New York. Here in Washington, Lucy is doing some training in preparation for her next assignment (Iraq.) In New York, it will be mostly vacationing and visiting family. The kids will join us from their schools a bit latter in the summer, Ben in early June, Filipa in early July. We are all looking very much forward to having the family all together again, even if only for a short period of time!

More soon! BRgds, Jorge

Previous postcards are filed in Archives & Links.