

Paris, January 3, 2010. Here we are again, a bit later than what I wanted, but oh well, better late than never! ... And the great news is that the Holiday Season is over. One more Christmas gone by! Uhfff!

I must admit that Paris is kind of pretty during this time of the year (a few pictures of the city on the photo album below), but the crowds are absolutely horrendous.

Anyway, I will soon be on the road again, this time on my motorcycle, heading to Guinea-Bissau. I will leave from Paris to Lisbon by next week, and then from there to Bissau by early February. Let's hope for a more successful trip than my last one to Turkey.

I will be back here as soon as I can to let you all know how things went. Until then.

BRgds, Jorge

Previous postcards are filed in Archives & Links.