

Paris, November 4, 2010. Just back in Paris after yet another photo-taking trip to Portugal. On this trip I spent a lot of time in the North, and what a beautiful area of the country that is!

... and what is it with all this photo taking? It turns out that I am working on a book, or rather, a touring guide of Portugal for car and motorcycle drivers. My idea is to provide a dozen or so of itineraries through scenic roads and interesting places to visit. By the next Post Card, I should be able to provide you all with a bit more info on this project. Until then, I hope that you enjoy some of the photos that I have posted here!!! (See below.)

Which reminds me: the next Post Card should not be posted until sometime in December, so may you all have a wonderful Thanksgiving!

Stay tuned. Until the next one.

Jorge
