

Chevy Chase, Nov 8, 2014 Back at home after yet another rather epic trip: 15,846 miles in 2 and 1/2 months on The Mule! From home past the Arctic Circle in Alaska; then south along the Pacific to San Diego (with a little detour to see a bit of the Southwest); and then back home via the southern States. For a few pictures of this journey, see the link below.

But most importantly, the adventures through the Americas on my motorcycle will soon continue! Yes, last week I booked with Ship Overseas, Inc for the transport of my motorcycle to Chile. So if things go per plans, The Mule will leave from Baltimore on Dec 11, to arrive in San Antonio on Jan 8 of next year. I've also secured my own transportation: I will leave on Jan 7 on United, to arrive in Santiago on the following day. So by mid-January 2015 I should be back on the road, now heading to Ushuaia in Tierra del Fuego. Follow the adventure on my FB page: www.facebook.com/jorge.serpa.1654

Still related with this trip, I have decided to "can" the dedicated site that I had developed for it, as it is quite obvious that that site is not working as I envisioned it to. So what I am planning on doing is to adapt our Tamlyn-Serpa Family site (i.e., this one) to incorporate some of the functions that are now being carried out on the TheAmericas-TTB site. As soon as that is done, I will shut down the latter.

Cheers.
