

Cotonou, Aug 15, 2016 Quite a few miles done on airplanes since our last Postcard here, that's for sure! In early June I found myself in Europe, rather unexpectedly, I should add. Lucy had some wok-related training to do in London, UK, and I decided to tag along. During our stay there, somehow I found myself having a wonderful lunch in Bergen, Norway!!! And we also had a chance to visit Salisbury and the nearby Stonehenge site with our cousins Serpa-Pulido. See the links below for a few pics from this trip.

And then we were back in Europe late in July! This time for a big wedding in my family, in Portugal. On our way there, we stopped in Stuttgart where Lucy had a work-related meeting. This gave us an opportunity to visit the wonderful Mercedes-Benz Museum in-town. Precious! (Pics on the links below.)

We took advantage of this last trip to visit the Azores, for a few days of R&R (that's rest and recuperation in our "official" lingo...). And they were as beautiful as ever! (Pics below as well.)

Now, with August approaching its end, things are falling back into the normal routine, here in peaceful Cotonou. Phew...

Cheers.
Jorge